FEATURING THE TALENTED

How would you best describe yourself in a sentence?

I'm a go getter, lol it's even on my Facebook.

When did you grow the urge of wanting to be a radio host ?

It's crazy because when I grew up my dad had convinced me that science was the best way to go so I took science subjects until matric. Getting to varsity was stressful and the available course was Media, so I took it and ran with it. Even after that I didn't do radio until my final year and that's when I started. It was one guy I met at an outing who said my voice should definitely be on radio.

You studied Media (radio) at the University of Limpopo ,take us through your first time being live on air.

On that day, Dj Tira and his crew was coming to the studio and the interview was given to me. Worse interview of my life! I was shaking, I didn't know what to ask. I kept smiling and laughing the whole time but he forgave me. From there I understood the importance of preparing Whose your Ultimate favorite radio host ? One who you'd jump at the opportunity to work with?

I think Thando Thabethe is exceptional, I wouldn't even know how to work with her because she is everything that I want to be. She needs to write a book, like a guide line of some sort. Dj Fresh has to be someone I wish to work with, I want to meet him and have a conversation with him. I love him, not in that way, lol, you know what I mean.

Who do you have at the top of your playlist?

Jhene Aiko and recently deeply obsessed with Libriana People

Biggest lesson your radio experience has taught you?

Practice, stay away from men and take your brand as your business. Get paid for the things you are good at.

NONTO WITH ROBERT MARAWA

How do you balance your life through motherhood, radio, family and your relationship?

It is not easy at all, my work consumes all of my time and having to be there physically for my family and daughter has been the hardest thing to do right now. I do try to be there with other forms of support like advices, decisions making, finances and everything that we can do digitally because being physically there isn't an option sometimes .

Would you or are you dating someone within the industry?

I will not date anyone in the industry. It's not a good idea, speaking from experience.

What do you aspire to accomplish in order to grow the Nonto brand ?

Well, I've tried so many spaces in the industry, Radio being the main identity of my brand. Big news is that I'm expanding to DJing this year, I have been an upcoming Dj for over five years now and this year I'm diving deep into it and not turning back. I don't think people are ready for this chapter of my life.

How has the progress been throughout the years?

-Roller coaster! Up and down. But mostly up because look at where I am now. I have worked for Energy fm, BCR Fm, Wiggle tunes now the biggest commercial radio station in Mpumalanga, RISEfm. I'm ripping the fruits of my hard work .

Was radio ever the only option?

No, when you enter into the industry you realise there is so much space and things to do. I would advice people who are starting radio not to look at radio as the only option but a platform to open doors

"I have social anxiety, I wonder how I do all that I do"

"My biggest fear is LOVE, I prefer giving it all to my family than strangers..."
